

ONE OF THE BEST

That is What a Jackson Man Says of His Town

IT IS LIVELIER THAN A CRICKET

The Financial Troubles Will Be Righted Before Long—A Saginaw Man Also Boasts of His City.

"Anyone who thinks Jackson isn't a lively town ought to come down there a while," said A. E. Vandercrook of the Press City at the Morton yesterday. "Everything points to one of the best years from a business standpoint that we have had in years. The new Hurd house was opened Monday and now we have another first class hotel—something that we have needed for some time. It has been refitted and refurbished and gives every indication of being a first class hotel."

"It looked a little dark for us a few days ago when we had our trouble with the electric light company; but the outlook has brightened up since [Joke]. But I don't think the company will be rash enough to shut off the lights. It would be a mighty poor business investment. They have to run their electric railway system anyway, and it would be much better for them to carry the city for a couple of months than to have any trouble. If they should shut off the light they would never get another contract, and contracts are worth something to them."

The City's Finances.
This deficit in the city's finances isn't due to any malfeasance or corruption in office. It is simply an oversight. You see we had a reform government, and it thought the appropriation usually made was too high, consequently it was cut down from $18,000 to $15,000. This was legitimate enough, and a laudable ambition, but unfortunately it neglected to reduce the running expenses of the city government. Consequently the cash flow faster than the time and the city found itself stranded financially. I think the city will pay its lighting bill as soon as it can get the money to do so.

We have a good system of street cars now, too. Formerly I think we had the worst line in the United States if not in the world. It was the perfection of inefficiency. Logansport, Indiana, is the only city that ever tried to compete with it, and it couldn't do it. But we have a system now that would be proud of it. It is safe and makes fast time. They are talking of extending it to Vandercrook lake and making that a summer resort—something as Reed's lake was here before the beer element obtained control. All they need now is to procure the right of way through three or four more farms and they can go on and build the road.

Taking it for all in all Jackson is about as prosperous as it ever was, and that means, you know, that it is one of the liveliest towns in the country."

Saginaw is Booming.

M. C. Pomeroy of Saginaw was a guest at the Morton yesterday. Speaking of Saginaw's industries, yesterday, he said: "There can be no doubt that Saginaw's business prospects grow brighter every day. More capital is coming into the city every day. New industries are springing up and the old industries continue to flourish. We are having a little trouble with our city government, but that won't hurt us very much so far as the business is concerned. It is difficult to learn the true status of that muddle anyway. Charges and countercharges have been made until the principals themselves can't keep track of it. It is a difficult matter now to tell how much is criminal and how much is mere personal jealousy in the matter. That will all have to come out later."

But it is our commercial interests that we pride ourselves on rather than our governmental affairs. We may be a little cloudy in regard to city bonds and treasury records; but when it comes to salt and lumber we are right as it is.

We intend to do a large amount of lumbering this season. More logs will be rafted down from Green Bay than ever before. That is going to be a regular industry with us as long as the Green Bay timber lasts. Logs can be rafted down cheaper than the sawed lumber can be shipped down. We intend to cut the logs and saw them and then to cut them. Our own timber is gone; but so long as a saw log can be floated into Saginaw Bay our mills will flourish."

SCRAP AT THE PRISON.

James Shaw, Foreman, Attacked by a Convict Named Howard.

JACKSON, Feb. 4.—Another "scrap" occurred at the prison yesterday morning. "Scrap" is so frequent down there now days that only the more important ones are noticed, and the minor demonstrations of this nature have become so frequent that they have been gradually grafted into the real policy of the prison and would more properly come under the head of "Prison Management." Yesterday a colored convict named Howard seemed inclined to pass his time in the private engine room of the Withington & Cooley shops. He had no business there, and was in the way. Mr. Shaw told the keeper that he did not want Howard in the engine room. The keeper told Howard that there was an objection to his staying there. This made Howard very mad, and he went into the room where Shaw was and struck him in the face twice before he was aware of what was going on. Mr. Shaw's lip was badly cut, but he was not otherwise seriously hurt, although somewhat stunned by the blow. Howard was prevented from further assault by the keeper.

PERSONS ACQUITTED.

Hero of the Sewing Machine Fight Vindicated.

TONTA, Feb. 4.—August Persane, the stubborn German farmer of Lake Odessa, who was the hero of a famous fight with Officer Chas. Locke, over a sewing machine, for which a writ of replevin had been issued, has been acquitted in the circuit court of the charge of resisting an officer. Persane had been jailed a new sewing machine while his old one was being repaired. The agent reported the former sold and the company tried to collect for it. The farmer was shot in the leg by the officer, being seriously wounded, and may institute proceedings against Locke.

HOBBS ARRESTED.

Benton Harbor's Vigorous Crusade Against Gamblers et al.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Feb. 4.—Lewis Robb, the gambler, was "thrown on the sponge," and arrested to go out of business. He weakened when he found that a third warrant was waiting for him on the charge of gambling. Mayor Hobbs consented to have the last warrant withheld, however, so long as Robb agrees to stay in the city and the other two cases against him were not withdrawn.

But Mayor Hobbs will not quit with Robb. He is going to give all gamblers the same "shake," and will proceed against several known houses, and the proprietors and associates of the dens of infamy must quit or pay the penalty. Evidence is being secured to back up the proceedings. Several hundred citizens stood on the street near the justice's court during the trial of Robb, quietly determined to see justice done, and no rash defiance of officers or the law will be tolerated.

STOLE FROM THE LORD.

The Work of Vandals at the Mary Palmer Church.

DETROIT, Feb. 4.—Some time yesterday the Mary Palmer M. E. church, corner of Champlain street and McDougall avenue, was entered and thoroughly ransacked. The deprecators went into the valuable library, and poured ink over everything, many rare books being ruined. Ink was thrown over the carpet and furniture, and the furnishings of the church otherwise damaged. The janitor, Fred E. Hearn, could not tell Detectives Wolf and Palmer, who looked up the matter last night, whether anything had been stolen or not, and the pastor, William H. Shier, was too ill to visit the church.

DIED FROM CHLOROPHORM.

A Hastings Man Succumbs to It while on the Operating Table.

HASTINGS, Mich., Feb. 4.—Joseph Tyndel died this afternoon from the effects of chlorophorm which was given for the purpose of relieving a dislocated shoulder. Several physicians were present and, observing the dangerous symptoms, did everything in their power to rouse the unfortunate man but he died on the operating table.

Supreme Court Cases.

LANSING, Feb. 4.—Cases heard: 83—The Bay City Belt Line Railroad company vs. Joseph A. Hitchcock, et al.

82—Willard I. Brotherton, et al. vs. Max Goldstein and Louis Goldman.

84—The Singer Manufacturing company vs. Elizabeth Collator.

85—Michigan Shingle company vs. London and Lancashire Insurance company.

86—The People vs. David Stett.

87—The Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine company vs. Joseph H. Seaver.

88—The Chicago & Grand Trunk railway vs. James H. Hallett, et al.

89—Sarae vs. John E. Miller, et al.

The two last cases were argued together and an evening session was held in order to finish the arguments. Court comes at 3 a. m. tomorrow with 90, 91, 92 and 93 upon the call.

Fell Fifty Feet.

BAY CITY, Mich., Feb. 4.—Horace Guthbert barely escaped death this morning. He fell from the roof of a new mill a distance of fifty feet, striking on his face. He was terribly bruised, but not fatally injured.

THE SILVER CROSS CLUB.

The Latest Manifestation of Club Life Among New York Women.

That old chestnut, "women cannot organize," was never more emphatically pronounced a fallacy than by the formation of the Silver Cross club, which sprang up like magic during the latter part of the past summer in New York.

About the middle of August three earnest women of thought and action, who by chance had not joined in the usual summer exodus from the city, happened to be thrown together one evening and began to discuss Mrs. Livermore's "Co-operative Womanhood in the State," then just out in The North American Review. The singular, almost marvelous, tendency of women at this time to form organizations and to call their clubs was talked about.

One of the trio remarked upon the rather peculiar fact that so few, or almost none, of the various clubs for women in New York were proprietary in their nature—that is to say, few or none have their own clubhouses or rented rooms like men's clubs, which are all measurably proprietary in their nature, having their own properties, rooms or houses. Only a few of the women's clubs have any fixed place to meet in, there being but one—The New York Ladies' club—which has a house where its members can meet, get their meals, a room to stay all night if desired, and where members can invite guests to be entertained and secure rooms for them if necessary.

The success of co-operative associations from co-operative stores to co-operative housekeeping enterprises was urged by one of the ladies as a proof that the large means of the women who compose the New York Ladies' club was not a necessary factor in the success of such a club, that a co-operative supply bureau in connection with a club would help to create a fund for the clubhouse or bureau.

"Why not begin at once?" said the third member of the party. "Let us meet here next Wednesday evening and let each of us bring one or more friends to talk over the matter and see what can be done. We all know the need of such a club and bureau."

They met on the next Wednesday. Each brought her friend or friends. They met to discuss, to differ, to agree to differ on minor points—just as men do, just as all sensible people do—but to agree on the main one, namely, that women who travel, women who board, whether married or single, but particularly single women, women who live in apartments, women who have homes of their own, but occasionally need other accommodations than those homes afford and facilities for the transaction of their business and for social purposes outside their homes, need proprietary clubs and clubhouses.

Then those women went to work to organize their club, and the success of their undertaking was shown at a club reception, the first of the season, at which there were over a hundred guests and members together present. That reception was reported in one of the morning dailies as "the elaborate and brilliant initial literary entertainment of the Silver Cross club."

The great morning dailies can sometimes make mistakes. They cannot always be depended upon for correct reports. "If you see it in"—even the best of them—"it is" (not always) "so." The facts about the Silver Cross club reception are that there was a reception of the club in West Sixty-first street, mainly for the purpose of testing the popularity of the movement, and to ascertain the sentiment of the club on the subject of a bureau of information and accommodation for women—in other words, to know if they really wanted a clubhouse or clubhouses and a bureau.

That reception decided both questions in the affirmative. A paper was read announcing the aims and objects of the club. A light collation was served, followed by a dance, and there was no lack of gentlemen to dance with the Silver Cross club girls.

Of the interior management of the club it is needless to speak, but it has proved its popularity by having its headquarters and bureau already established temporarily, and perhaps permanently, at 20 West Sixty-first street, where it has already secured accommodations to some ladies and information and guidance to many more.

REMOVING INK FROM WOOL.

Ink spots, if dried in the wool, are difficult to eradicate. Strong vinegar or dilute lemon may remove them. Strong muriatic acid or spirit of salts applied with a piece of cloth, and the spot afterward well washed with water, will remove all traces of ink.—Good Housekeeping.
